3 things listing agents can do to up their customer service game

In today’s super competitive real estate arena, constantly upping your game is the only way to stay ahead — and who doesn’t want that? Here’s how to up your game by providing information, communicating data and building a value-add Rolodex.

Source: click here