

Buy a house already: How to get millennial renters off the fence

If you're having trouble turning members of America's rental generation into homeowners, Linda Liberatore has one suggestion that might make a huge difference: sell millennials on homeownership. Linda Liberatore With a couple clever real estate hacks, it's pretty easy for homeowners to create cash flow to offset the costs associated with owning a home, and by sharing these real estate hacks, you'll become the go-to agent for millennials. During an interview with Pat Hiban, Liberatore explored several real estate hacks designed to make homeownership as profitable as possible. Below, we'll cover a couple of the hacks you can use to convert rental-minded millennials into eager buyers. To learn other real estate hacks and more ways to build a strong base of millennial buyer clients, listen to the podcast below.

https://traffic.libsyn.com/hibandigital/Linda_Liberatore2.mp3 Long-term real estate hacks: Find roommates with Roomster Getting a good roommate, or even se...

Source: click here