A 10-step plan for having a life outside real estate

If you're spending too much time working on your business, rather than creating memories with those you care about, try this 10-step process. It makes no difference which step you take first. The point is to begin the process and build from there.

Source: click here