Agent/broker perspective: Should you tell your sphere you're ill?

A successful Miami real estate agent has been diagnosed with a relatively treatable form of cancer and is struggling with the decision of whether or not to share the news with colleagues and clients.

Source: click here