Agents, social media is not about you

This year will bring change to the real estate industry, but there’s one thing that won’t change: “The need for people to tell you their business in real time.”

Source: click here