

Shake it off: 5 things real estate agents do to blow off steam

In 2015, Officer Jeff Davis, a 19-year veteran of the Dover Police department, went viral on YouTube when he did perhaps the funniest lip sync ever recorded. Performing to Taylor Swift's hit single Shake it Off while behind the wheel of his patrol car, this man has the words and the moves down to a science. When I'm having a bad days with the haters hating and the fakers faking, I pull up this video. Every field of work has its crappy days with cantankerous clients, miserable mistakes and disastrous downfalls, and real estate seems to have its fair share of movie-worthy "terrible, horrible, no-good, very bad days." So when the going gets tough, how do you get through it? I posed this open-ended question to agents in a variety of online locales. What I got back was an array of ways that agents blow off steam when the pressure starts to mount, and in honor of Officer Davis, I've organized the top five below by inspirational song. 1. Let It Go via GIPHY I'm pr...
