Compass is now showing the listing agent on competitors' listings

Compass, last week, quietly made a big change to the way it displays listings on its consumer-facing website. Every non-Compass listing now shows the listing agent and contact information for the listing agent, making Compass' site more similar to Zillow or realtor.com than a brokerage website.

Source: click here