Concierge Auctions sheds light on slow selling luxe markets and offers relief

There is undeniable polarization happening in the U.S. luxury property market right now — well-positioned, high-end homes either sell quickly in the first few days, or they languish, says Laura Brady, president of luxury real estate marketplace Concierge Auctions.

Source: click here