Contactually can now estimate when contacts will transact

By activating Contactually's integration with Remine, agents can tap the software's database to supplement their contacts with relevant property and predicative data.

Source: click here