6 tips for taking your personal brand to the next level

Gary Vaynerchuk encourages people to be transparent and to tell stories — but he also says that to break through the noise, you need to “think like a media company.” This works for some agents, but others can benefit more from creating memorable experiences that deepen their professional relationships and create an emotional attachment to their personal brand. Here’s how to do just that.

Source: click here