How an agent-stager duo is marketing this historic luxury skyscraper

One of the things that makes New York City real estate so iconic is the blend of old and new, the storied past with constant reinvention. Nowhere is this more evident than in NYC real estate development, where historic buildings are reborn as extraordinary contemporary living spaces.

Source: click here