Lesson Learned: Make education the first pillar of your business

Each week, we talk to agents across the country about what they've learned along the way (and what they wish they had known as new agents). This week, third generation D.C. agent Jonathan Addison.

Source: click here