Millennials are influencing their parents' homebuying decisions

Millennials are a driving force in the housing market, whether buying homes themselves or influencing their parents’ decisions, according to an NAR survey.

Source: click here