NAR's new top-level domain '.realestate' launches in Sept. for members

The National Association of Realtors announced today that it will finally launch “.realestate,” a new top-level domain that will be available to its members, and the members of the Canadian Real Estate trade association, in September. The domain will expand to the general public in late November.

Source: click here