Nostalgia, school pride and game day bringing homebuyers back to their college towns

Nothing brings back the nostalgic rush of the good old days like a trip to your college town years after graduation. That desire to relive special memories and unleash school pride is pulling a wave of homebuyers back to their college stomping grounds.

Source: click here