Sellers are video monitoring buyers: What’s NAR’s stance?

Buyer’s agents should warn clients about opening too many drawers during that next home tour, thanks to a rise in sellers using app-connected video cameras to observe potential buyers. What kind of privacy is a buyer entitled to when touring a property?

Source: click here