Master of the listing presentation: How to land more deals

The listing presentation in real estate is all about the soft skills. A real estate agent’s personality, communication style and rapport will largely drive the success or failure of this critical conversation.

Source: click here