Will homesellers foot bill for climate change woes?

Increasingly local and regional governments are turning to homeowners to pony up climate change-fighting funds in the form of new taxes.

Source: click here