Zillow takes us inside ‘Santa’s house’

Cocoa is available on tap at Santa’s 2,500-square-foot, three-bedroom, two-bath cabin, which Zillow’s wild imagination brings to life with a cheerful, creative rendering.

In the gourmet kitchen is an oven with 12 different cookie settings, and down the hall you’ll find the Claus’s master bedroom, two inviting guest rooms and Santa’s study where beside his writing desk sits the very sewing table he sat at to create the first Teddy bear.

"When Santa's house first appeared on Zillow, a lot of kids were asking about the elves and where they live," said Zillow Chief Marketing Officer Jeremy Wacksman. "We're thrilled that this year, millions of kids around the world can explore not just Santa's house in the North Pole, but also the homes of some of his most trusted helpers."

The quaint log home sits on 25 acres of picturesque land, which also includes "a community of elf tiny homes, a state-of-the-art toy-making facility, garage with space for an all-weather sleigh and stables that board eight live-in reindeer, plus a bonus stall for red-nosed company."

Elf Village, the unofficial birthplace of the tiny home trend, is full of unique lodgings. The tiny farmhouse, rustic mini cabin and petite bamboo bungalow are just three of the many dwellings inhabited by Santa's ho-ho-ho-so-talented helpers.

An Elf Village dwelling

If you were hoping the jolly guy in red would sell his comfy chalet soon, you’re out of luck — the home is off the market, and it looks like he’ll be holding on to it for quite a while (pretty much forever) as its value is forecasted to increase 6.9 percent to $763,867 in 2018.
