What venture capital looks for in real estate entrepreneur hopefuls

Do you have the most brilliant idea that will totally change the real estate industry and just need the dough (and strategic backing) to get started?Constance Freedman of Moderne Ventures, a venture fund and later-stage accelerator program for real estate, mortgage, insurance, title and home services industries, has some questions for you.The founder and managing partner shares what her firm expects to hear when entrepreneur hopefuls approach her firm.Determine if you're ready to make that pitch or if there's a little more homework to be done....

Source: click here